

“a BOOK! BOK! BOK!”

To the tune of “Ram Sam Sam”

A book! Bok! Bok!

A book! Bok! Bok!

A chicken’s got a book! Bok! Bok!

Repeat each verse twice. Have the audience join you the second time. Eventually the kids will chime in the name of the animal based on the sound cue before you can say it.

A book! Bow Wow!

A book! Bow Wow!

A dog has got a book! Bow Wow!

A book! Baa! Baa!

A book! Baa! Baa!

A sheep has got a book! Baa Baa!

A book! Buzz! Buzz!

A book! Buzz! Buzz!

A bee has got a book! Buzz! Buzz!

Add your own verses. The animal noise doesn’t necessarily have to begin with a “B.” I did this with a group of first graders and one kid volunteered the following:

A book! Burp! Burp!

A book! Burp! Burp!

A kid has got a book! Burp! Burp!
